AN IRONICAL ORATION.

In praise of DUELING,

Spoken by Mr. Thomas Allibone, jun. on the 5th June, 1835, at the commencement in the University of Pennsylvania.

Ladies and gentlemen,

I have the honor of addressing you on the ancient and honorable practice of duelling. Had I no higher object than to amuse you with description, or kindle the flash of feeling I would call the duel the cre- of human glory, the cheap defence of honor, the Corinthian pillar of polished society.
-----But such pompous incumbrances would be as offensive to the correct taste of this audience as the tremendous declamations of the enemies of duelling, who by daubing it over with horrid colors of malice and murder, have exposed it in such a shocking appearance, that one would think it fitter for the infernal spirits than for the polite class of mankind. Avoiding equally the partiality which drives praise to extravagance, and the morofeness which delights in aggravating the atrociousness of what it would calumniate; let us calmly inquire into the good and evil effects of duelling & carry candor along with us.

Let it be admitted that the duel partakes of the imperfection of human things, producing, when it falls into improper hands, partial evil; though its natural tendency is towards general good. After this large concession is made still it can be asserted that the duel has been practised, time immemorial, in all civilized states, that it has never degenerated from its original principles, and tendency, that it has been adored by those who have experienced its beneficial consequences; & reprobated only by such as had no practical acquaintance with it, that when properly managed it has never failed to remove controversy, and its cause out of society; and in no single instance has the loser who is always apt to complain, carried an appeal from a definitive sentence, to any human tribunal. Can the pulpit or the bar, say so much for any one of their institutions?

The enemies of duelling fight with a shadow. What a horrid crime they cry for one christian to shed the blood of another in a duel! who ever doubted it? but whoever heard of such a thing? These gentlemen when they prove that certain classes of mankind ought not to fight duels, sophistically conclude that the duel is universally unlawful. No the advocates for duelling, unequivocally declare that the duel would be debased by rendering it universal; they maintain that not one in ten thousand of the human race, is entitled to the honor of leaving the world in this manner. The ladies are excluded in a mass; because it appears to have been the intention of the Creator,— that they should cherish, not destroy human life. Their virtues are of a very different nature from those displayed on the duelling ground; besides as ladies never give the lie, the cause of the duel does not exist among them. Among men, that large class denominated christians, are prohibited by this law, and restrained by their temper from shedding blood in single combat; humility is their honor, and forgiveness their pistol. Lawyers settle their disputes by the statute book; the merchant appeals to the ledger; and the laboring class of mankind are so little accustomed to think, that they are incapable of forming the extremely abstruse and refined idea of honor, which makes it a man's duty to shoot his friend; and hence they universally confound the duel with murder.

There remains then only one small class who have the least pretensions to the duel: I mean the gentlemen or men of honor, so called, because honor, science; they live, swear, and die, by honor. In a word they are subjects to the law of honor? were it the law of God, the law of the land, or the law of nations, modestly would seal my lips in the presence of this learned assembly.

—But as there may be a man of honor present, I shall answer the query in the exquisite words of Paley.

"The law of honor," says that great philosopher, "omits all such duties as belong to the supreme being, as well as those which we owe to our superiors, for what reason profaneness, neglect of public worship, or private devotion, cruelty towards servants, injurious treatment of tenants or dependants, want of charity to the poor, injuries done to tradesmen by insolvency or delay of payment, with numberless other instances of the same kind, are accounted no breaches of honor because a man is not the less an agreeable companion for these vices, nor the worse to deal with in those concerns which are usually transacted between one gentleman and another."—He Adds:

"The law of honor being constituted by men occupied in the pursuits of pleasure, and for the mutual convenience of such, will be found, as might be expected from the character and design of the law-makers, to be, in most instances, favorable to the li-centious indulgence of the natural passions." And concludes with these words which should be engraven on the hearts of gentlemen. "Thus it allows of fornication, adultery, drunkenness, prodigality, duelling, and of revenge in the extreme, and lays no stress upon the virtues opposite to these."

The greatest advocate for duelling never extended the privilege beyond these honorable men. It is their right as gentlemen, their elective franchise, their jury trial, their coat of arms; in short, they could do no more without it, than a philosopher without cockle shells and butterflies; abolish duels and they cease to be accountable creatures: how could they be governed or settle their controversies without it? how often, for instance, does it become necessary to ascertain which of two gentlemen is a liar, or which of them is better beloved by their common female friend? these and a thousand other equally difficult and important subjects admit of no other mode of decision. I hope a great and magnanimous nation will never rob gentlemen of a privilege without which the association of honor would crumble into atoms. And when it is considered that the principle of accommodation is interwoven with the whole texture of our constitution and laws, that it has been carried so far as to allow a large class of the community to speak the truth without swearing, I hope it will not be refused to men of honor to settle their disputes in their own way.

More might be said if one dare.
Our constitution, after all the fine things that have been said of its merits, which indeed are great—is grossly wrong in the articles which forbid nobility and titles of honor. It should be amended so as to admit the consecration of nobility of merit, without remainder however. Into this legion of honor should be admitted all such as could prove themselves subjects of the law of honor, in all its positive and negative clauses, which proof would be an easy matter, as their conduct is notorious. The title should continue for life, unless forfeited by some dishonorable crime, such as repentance. The insignia of the order should be a dagger, worn at the belt; and to distinguish them from the industrious class of citizens, a cap should be added, surmounted with a large pair of horns.

The advantages of such an order would be incalculable; for, 1st common citizens could then avoid their company—and 2d, when foreign men serves them for bible, God, and con-of honor would visit our cities, they could at once find a gentleman to conduct them to places of genteel resort, and display our virtues and manners to them in the most advantageous light, while our illustrious guests would be spared those awkward embarrassments into which they are so apt to fall, upon their first mixing with our simple and unpolished citizens; duels among such should be transferred from the class of crimes to that of virtues.

This matter is perfectly practicable.
For if it be a correct principle that the materials of legislation, should be sought for in the tacit maxims and habits of society, no time can be more suitable for such a law, than the present, as public sentiment has anticipated the law. Death by duel is not at all considered as murder.

Should one drunken porter in a rage knocked out the brains of another, with a billet of wood, or paving stone; or a negroe in the kitchen run a fellow servant thro' the guts with a spit, the city would be thrown into universal uproar, the union would ring with proclamations and rewards for his apprehension: nought but his blood could appease the incensed vengeance of the community; because such persons are considered as subjects of moral government.
But a man of honor steps out in the morning with his second and surgeon, blows out his friend's brains, or whips him genteelly through the body with a small sword; returns home, dines with his friends, and appears at the theatre in the evening perfectly disembarrased; were it not for the licentiousness of the press, nobody would hear a whi-per of the matter. No person considers it as murder. Homicide it cannot be in any sense of the word; it is only the extinction of a gentleman.

Any objection I have heard against duelling, are, in my opinion, and I hope you will think so too, unworthy of a serious answer. To the pathetic descriptions of weeping mothers & fe-bbling sisters, and widows dissolved in tears; I answer in the words of the poet—that

Heaven is pleased to make distress become them,

And clotheth them most amiable in tears.

You point me to the orphans of the deceased—I point you to the children of the survivor, and ask, are they in a preferable condition? You exclaim, it was a violation of the laws of the land—I answer, that is the law's fault, repeal it, and the offence ceases. But the man deserted his post? No; he felt at it: he left a blank however in society! Grant at least that society has been saved the trouble of making the erasure.

But of all other things; I am surprised that it should be made an objection to duelling, that it excludes from the kingdom of Heaven. The objection would be insuperable if any man of honor ever purposed, or wished to remove to that country; but its laws, maxims, habits and enjoyments, are so entirely at war with all the souls of men of honor, if they were cast on its shore by shipwreck, they would leave at the first fair wind. I have read somewhere that the devil quit it as soon as he got a spark of honor in him, and I presume men of honor would follow the example. The only dishonorable circumstance attending the death by duel, for which I owe the mortification of an apology; is, that when gentlemen have not had the happiness of being killed dead on the spot, they have been known in a few rare instances to pray! and, which is still more rare, clergymen have been sent for. But when it is considered how much mental energy is impaired by a large effusion of blood, a candid mind will attribute such seeming defection, to debility of reason, or the recurrence of childish habits. Besides, the occurences is extremely rare.

In a word, if duelling were confined to its proper objects, men of honor, there is no reason why the laws should prohibit it: no cause why we should be disturbed with absurd lamentations about the irreparable injury it does to society.

And if once in a century a moral gent should, without passing through the lower grades of promotion, attain at once to the honor of fighting a duel, men of honor shew their liberality by administering him into their corps without further ceremony. And surely it betrays little dignity on the part of those whom he forsakes, to weep incontinent over the loss of a man, who would rather be damned than keep their company.

in 18 days from Fort Royal, Martinique. July 27th, in lat. 19, 30, long. 62, 20, the Bellona was enveloped in a dreadful storm of thunder and lightning, which struck down every person on board and killed one man, badly wounded another, very much injured the sails and rigging, entered the hold of the vessel and caused her to spring a leak, started four of her plankers, and did other damage. In lat. 31, 43, long. 69, 14, spoke the schooner Republican, Benner, from New York. Left at Fort Royal, ship Hope,

MELANCHOLY ACCIDENT.

On Tuesday the 16th instant, the court of chancery and orphan's court, were held at this place. At the usual hour the court adjourned for dinner, shortly after a heavy rain commenced, accompanied with thunder and lightening; a great number of people were attending upon business before the court; the suddenness with which the gust came on obliged every one to fly for shelter, and most of the persons not inhabitants of the town, went into the court house and occupied the court room above it: in a few minutes after the summit of the Belfry was struck with lightning: which ran down its roof, and from thence was attracted by the iron of a window shutter belonging to the Belfry from thence it descended to the roof of the house, and was let down a raster filled with nails, till it got within about a foot of the eaves, then it passed through the roof and took to one of the studs in the front of the house, the main body descended the stud, two other streams flew off to the iron hoops & hinges of the window shutters on each side of the stud, and from thence it passed on the lower flo-ry to the iron in the door and windows, and so passed off to the earth. It unfortunately happened that many people were sitting in the upper room against the front wall on a bench extending the whole length of the house. Dr.
Wolfe, of Lewes, who had brought a poor widow to Georgetown, on business at the orphan's court, was sitting directly in the course of the main stream, and was killed instantly, two others, one on each side of him, were severely burnt and stunned, their watch-cases were perfectly melted. Four more suffered greatly by the shock—and several others both above and below stairs were stunned and thrown on to the floor. The roof, studs, rafters, window shutters, and whole broad side of the house were torn and shivered to pieces. Doctor Wolfe has left a widow and two small children; all the other sufferers are in a fair way of recovery.

ing the fingers of the guard, they permitted me to send this letter on board an American vessel.
"P. S. The brig Hudson was bound from New-York to Naples, and the only reason assigned for the privateer detaining my papers is my not having a passport from the Spanish consul."
Extract of a letter from a gentleman dated St. John's River, (Province of East Florida) July 9, to his friend in Norfolk, received by the John. Belfry, capt. Stewart.
"You no doubt have heard of the capture of a ship, brig, and a sloop, that sailed out of Norfolk under British colors, by a privateer schooner from St. Augustine, commanded by captain Hooper. Those vessels arrived safe off St. Augustine bar, and there delivered the greater part of their cargo; the ship and brig drawing too much water to come over the bar, proceeded up St. Mary's river, together with the privateer, and were there moored under the Florida shore, at a place called Rose's Bluff, about one and a half miles from St. Mary's. On my arrival at St. Mary's I there found an English schooner, tender to the British frigate Cambrian mounting 18 guns and 70 men, taken a few days previous by the Cambrian, and sent to St. Mary's, for the express purpose of retaking these prizes, (the schooner was previously a French privateer, and had two American captains on board when taken.) She lay about an hour at anchor off St. Mary's, and then proceeded immediately up to the ship, which was prepared for action, and which had collected the whole force of the privateer, together with her own crew and the brig's, to make the best defence she could. She then, it was said mounted 8 or 10 guns and 40 men, exclusive of some militia that had collected on the Bluff, within fifty yards of which the ship was moored. The tender brought up on a sand bank within 120 and 150 yards of the ship, in a situation to expose her to a complete rake from every gun of the ship when she could only bring her two bow guns to bear for a length of time; a severe fire from both parties commenced, and lasted for one hour, at the expiration of which time, the tender manned three of her boats, and proceeded immediately to board, notwithstanding they were under a heavy fire of grape shot from the ship, and the militia from the Bluff.

"The boats on meeting to warm a reception from that quarter proceeded on the other quarter between the ship and the Bluff, where they were exposed between two fires, and notwithstanding all these difficulties, boarded the ship, after striking the colours, there was not one Frenchman on board alive, whether any escaped to the shore or not, is as yet, not ascertained, nor was it known when I left St. Mary's, how many were killed on board the tender; yet from the intrepidity of both parties, and the spirited attempt of the English to board in so desperate a situation, many must have been killed, and no doubt but the tender received considerable damage, as she was aground the whole of the action. The Cambrian lies off St. Mary's bar. I was within half a mile of the scene of action, from the commencement, and can assure you it was a fight as grand as solemn. Excuse the unconnected account and impute incorrectness to great haste.

"The action commenced about five o'clock on Saturday the 6th July, and I left St. Mary's about 12 o'clock that night."

We have conversed with an intelligent gentleman who came passenger in the schooner Betsey; he confirms the whole of the statements in the above letter, and adds, that one of the boats had to return to the cutter for a reinforcement of men, having the most of her crew killed in the first attack; he adds, that nothing could surpass the bravery displayed by the British tars on this occasion. The same gentleman informs, that on the privateers taking the sloop — which was bound to Bermuda from this port, and belonged to two young men (brothers) who were on board, fired into the sloop and killed one of them at the helm, and the other with two men was upset in going on board the privateer and drowned.

(Norfolk Herald.)

Captain Smith, of the brig Bellona, left Port Royal, Mart. on the 4th inst. at which time nothing was known there of the combined fleets, excepting that they had sailed for France, as it was supposed, with Lord Nelson in pursuit of them. When the Bellona left Martinique a cartel from Barbadoes sailed from Port Royal with all the British prisoners. A report was brought by the cartel that Lord Nelson had fallen in with the fleet, and captured four sail of the line. A frigate from France, with paper money on board to pay off the troops, reported that she spoke the first French fleet in the Bay of Biscay, bound home, July 5th, in passing Dominica, counted 12 or 14 sail of large vessels, apparently men of war, lying in Prince Rupert's Bay, one of them with what appeared to be a white flag at the mainmast, but the distance was too great to distinguish particularly.

The day before Captain Smith sailed accounts were received at Martinique from Guadaloupe of five sail of vessels from St. Domingo being carried in there, one of them mounting 20 guns.

(N. York paper.)

No discoveries are of more importance than those which are connected with the improvement of agriculture. Every one who has attended to this subject is acquainted with the sweeping destruction that has been occasioned by the genus of the Ercua, or Caterpillar. Many counties of this kingdom, especially in the western districts depend in a great degree on the annual produce of the orchard; and in these districts, at least, it will be of great utility to circulate the intelligence of an experiment for the protection of fruit trees from the Caterpillar, which has been attended with complete success. A clod of earth is moulded round the top of the trunk of the tree; and this is the whole process. From the hour that this operation is performed, the insects, even in the most remote ramifications, will begin to fall and the tree will, in a short time be wholly freed from this destructive incumbrance. It is true the animal will afterwards attempt to renew his depredations; but as soon as he arrives at this ring of earth, which should be permitted to remain, he will hasten down the trunk with more rapidity than he attempted the ascent. We state this fact with confidence but we leave to the learned Zoologist the explanation of the mystery.

Attention to the following Facts:

A greater saving at the Union Cedar Bread MANUFACTORY, it being the cheapest in America—opposite the market, in Royal Street—by WILLIAM LOVELL, who has been the longest and cheapest bread manufacturer in the world, and was regularly bred to the trade, and baked for many years in the city of Lon don eight hundred barrels of flour per week, in loaf bread, and was baker to his majesty King George and the prince of Wales.

He begs leave to return his sincere thanks to the ladies and gentlemen of this town, and the public in general, for the great encourage ment he has received, and assures them that no thing on his part shall be wanting to ensure their future favors; at the same time will trouble the reader with a few remarks on baking of bread, as follows:—Bread baked on tin is like a sponge, and seldom turned from dough, and is injurious to young children. This kind of bread is sel dom in the oven more than thirty minutes; and the bread baked on the hearth will not bake in less than ninety minutes—and will keep, if taken proper care of, five days longer than any bread baked as before stated—and that two tea cup loaves of sound baked bread will go further than three ninepenny loaves baked on tin. As such, will leave the public to judge of the baking, and which is the most wholesome.

The purpose it can answer is the baker only, who can weigh it less, and from the shortness of time in the oven, and being kept from the severe heat, and being on false bottom. The fact is, that the inhabitants of this town have been ob liged to bake in their own defence, or be obliged to eat this kind of bread, which could never have been introduced only to save labor as above stated and spoil good flour. The bread baked in the last twelve weeks by the subscriber, has been a saving to the public of nine hundred and twen ty-one dollars ninety cents, and he can say with truth double that sum in the consuming of the bread, and without injuring the health of the people of the town:—And he further begs leave to inform them, that he has introduced another kind of wholesome Bread, made of one half rye, and one half wheat flour—the ten cent loaf to weigh twelve ounces more than the wheaten loaf of the same price—As follows is a table of the weight of his bread from the present assay and price of flour:

The 20 cent loaf will weigh 4lbs. 2 ounces.
The 10 cent loaf 2lbs. 1 ounce. The 5 cent loaf 1lb. and half an ounce—and the 3 penny loaf 13 ounces.

The public are advised, as a material saving in bread, not to eat it until the day after baked, as it is much wholesomer and a saving of 20 per cent; if kept in an earthen pot it will keep six days.

It has been the practice of this place for bread sellers to start up like mushrooms, bake a month or two, and leave off for want of knowledge and materials—a greater part of them not being brought up to the business and depend only on journeymen.

It is hoped this practice will not be supported, as no man of merit will stay in any town unless properly encouraged—as baking is a mystery which none can know but by real practice.

Mr. L. is happy to find that many families are convinced that his Bread is cheaper than they can bake for themselves. This statement is cash, except where stated credits are agreed on, and then must be regularly paid, or the bread stop ped; which will be painful to the subscriber—having no other mode of establishing punctual payments, as his profits are small.

VALUABLE FAMILY
MEDICINES.

It received direct from the Patentees, and
FOR SALE BY JAMES KENNEDY, JUN.

DRUGGIST;
The following Valuable Medicines:
Dr. Rawson's Anti-Bilious and Stomach Bitters.

PREPARED BY
THOMAS H. RAWSON,
Member of the Connecticut Medical Society.

THESE Bitters have undoubtedly had the most rapid sale of any Patent Medicine ever before discovered, and are justly appreciated for their singular and uncommon virtues for restoring weak and decayed constitutions, and all that train of complicated complaints so common in the spring and fall seasons, such as intermittent Fever and Ague, long Autumnal Fevers, Dy-senteries, &c. They are also a very pleasant bitter for common use, and where they are known they have taken the place and superseded the use of all other bitters in public houses as well as in private families.—Price 50 cents a box.

Dr. Lee's (Windham) Billious Pills.
THE great sale and increasing demand for these valuable pills for these twelve years past, bespeak their intrinsic worth. They have proved singularly efficacious in Billious and Yellow fevers, Jaundice, Head Aches, Dysenteries, Billious Colic, Coliciveness, Female complaints, &c.

The very great demand and high esteem in which these pills are held throughout the United States and the West Indies, has induced many to counterfeit them; the purchaser is requested to observe that the name of Samuel Lee, jun. (the patentee) is affixed to each bill of directions, in his own hand writing, or they will not be genuine. Price 50 cents a box.

Dr. Rawson's Itch Ointment.
A certain and safe application for that disagreeable complaint called the ITCH. Price 42 cents a box.

Dr. Rawson's Anti Billious Pills, or, Family Physic.

The extraordinary celebrity these pills have gained, the universal demand for them and esteem in which they are held by medical men of the first eminence, are sufficient testimonials of their intrinsic worth. In great colics and sudden attacks of disorders, an early use of these pills often produces the happiest effects, and taken once in eight or ten days in cases of indigestion, headache, dizziness, pains in the stomach and bowels, dysen-teries, diarrhoeas, dropsies, &c. and a liberal use of my anti billious bitters in the intermediate time has relieved patients almost to a miracle.— price 25 cents a box.

Thompson's Aromatic Tooth Paste.

For the scurvy in the teeth and gums, &c. for whitening and preserving the teeth. It likewise takes off all disagreeable smells from the breath, which generally arises from scorbutic gums and bad teeth. This paste is much in use, and highly esteemed by all those who value the preservation of their teeth, it may be applied at all times with the greatest safety. It is neatly put up in pewter boxes with paper directions. Price 50 cents a box.

Dr. Rawson's Worm Powders.

A medicine which for efficacy and safety in its operation stands unrivalled. The most authenticated proofs and respectable authorities of its astounding virtues, and surprising effects, in extreme and alarming cases of worms, may be seen at the place of sale. Price 50 cents a packet.

Dr. Cooley's Vegetable Elixir; Or Cough Drops,

For Coughs, Colds, Asthmas, spitting of blood, and all diseases of the lungs. Its merits stand unrivalled. Price 50 cents a bottle.

Dr. Cooley's Rheumatic Pills.

Hinkley's Infallible remedy for the Piles.

PHILADELPHIA, JULY 1, 1805.
Polygraphic Painting.

THIS art, so long kept a secret and exclusively practised by the Polygraphic Society in London, is now in the possession of a Citizen of the United States, lately arrived from Europe; who proposes to execute by subscription, two hundred copies from an original Allegorical Painting in the Shakespeare Gallery, New York, by permission of the Proprietors: being

WASHINGTON.

Supported by LIBERTY, VIRTUE, and JUSTICE.
VIRGIL is holding the emblem of the reward he received. In the right of the piece, AMERICA, characterised as an Aboriginal, is seated in a pensive posture, lamenting her lots. In the left is PAINTING turned to HISTORY, for a subject worthy of her art, who is supposed to answer,

"There is none more worthy than Washington!" The whole forming a more emblematical tribute to the memory of that great man, than has yet been offered to the public.

To those who esteem his public services and his private worth, and to the patrons of improvements in the fine arts, this work is dedicated. Such as are already furnished with different engravings on this subject, will, it is hoped, still find room for the present undertaking, when they consider, that it will be a PAINTING, and the design new, executed by a process, which renders it more durable than oil paintings; that it requires no glaz—that while their prints contain, perhaps a fair resemblance only, this work affords a correct likeness; with the addition of six beautiful allegorical figures.— The price also is reduced so as to leave, comparative merits, no object.

Subscriptions, at Eight Dollars each, payable delivery, (which is little more than the price of an engraving of the same size) are received by Conrad & Co.
Bookbinders, Philadelphia; Robert Gray, Alexandria; Rapine, Conrad and Co. Capitol-hill City of Washington; and generally by Bookbinders throughout the Union; who will please to return their Subscription papers to Conrad and Co. Philadelphia, previous to the first of November next, when the work will be ready for delivery.

Frames will be procured, of any pattern, if required, on the most moderate terms.

IT IS ALSO PROPOSED TO EXECUTE PORTRAITS
Of Mr. and Mrs. Washington,

On a smaller scale, 15 inches by 12; executed by the same process, and will be ready for delivery at the same time, on subscriptions of Four Dollars and Fifty Cents each, including a Gift Frame. It is a principal aim of this work, to produce the most correct likenesses of this amiable couple.

One of the Paintings is now to be seen at Mr. Gadsby's Hotel, for a few days, who will receive subscriptions. As this copy is ordered to be sent to Richmond too, another will be forwarded, if subscribers offer, to Robert Gray's, King Street Alexandria, with whom subscribers may also enter their names.

The Artist presumes that the secret art of Poly-graphic Painting is known only to himself in the United States; having travelled from the Carolinas to Mis-sachusetts without finding a master of it. By this art original paintings may be multiplied, so as to render it difficult to point out the differences. The Polygraphic picture of the two, when compared together, is the most brilliant, and the nature of the process cannot fail rendering it more durable. In fine the whole is so result and beautiful a copy, that the mind is lost in conjecture as to the method in which it is executed.
